

ASB Case review activations

The Anti-Social Behaviour, Crime and Policing Act 2014 created a statutory duty for relevant bodies to undertake anti-social behaviour case reviews in circumstances where a threshold has been met. This allows victims and communities to hold agencies to account if they believe that their complaints relating to anti-social behaviour have not been dealt with appropriately.

The law requires that the relevant bodies publish information detailing:

- The number of applications for the ASB case reviews received;
- The number of times that the threshold for review was not met;
- The number of anti-social behaviour case reviews carried out; and
- The number of anti-social behaviour case reviews carried out that resulted in recommendations being made.

Data for Mid Sussex District Council is as follows:

Year	Applications received	Threshold not met	Threshold met and multi-agency review undertaken	Cases where recommendations were made
2023	7	4	3	3
2022	4	1	3	1
2021	4	3	1	1
2020	3	3	0	0
